Wednesday, May 3, 1871. Lociprocity and our Fishing In

Should the Joint High Commis now assembled in Washington for the rpose of adjusting the various quespurpose of adjusting the various questions in dispute between the governments of Great Britain and the United States conclude, among other matters, to recommend a renewal of the Reciprocity Treaty between the United States and the Dominion of Canada, and as a quid pro quo on the part of Canada to the States for the removal of those Customs barriers which removal of those Customs barriers which for some time past have shut Canadian productions out of American markets throw open her fishing grounds to Amerwhich such an arrangement would exert apon the trade and commerce of this Pacific Province of the Dominion, would be well nigh incalculable. It would at once open to our products the golden gate of San Francisco and the various other American markets bordering on the Pacific, and bring us into direct and healthy competition with our neighbors opposite. It is to the absence of this privilege in the past, that much of our commercial distress and failure is to be attributed. The Two Dwelling Houses and Shops, on Fort Street, west of Blanchard Street, adjoin-It was no want of those elements which constitute the wealth of a country that British Columbia did not make more rapid progress in the development of her resources, for Providence has amply endowed her with inexhaustible treasures both on land and in the sea. We know of no interest which will share more largely the advantages of reciprocal trade with the United States than that of our fisheries. As idea of the importance of the fisheries of the Eastern Provinces will be gained by a perusal of the Report of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries just issued 'in Canada, in which it is stated that the annual catch is valued at $17,
BY A GIRL, AGED 18, A SITUATION AS Nurse-Maid, or to do General Housework. 000,000. Now, compared with such a source of wealth, how insignificant does the aggregate yield of all our gold mines appear. Besides, the mines are every year becoming of less value, while the fisheries are just as abundantly supplied with fish this year as they were last, and promise to continue so every year for ages to come. Now, what the Eastern fisheries are to the Maritime Provinces, will our fisheries eventually be to British Columbia. Two things only are wanting to ensure the successful development of this interest, viz, confidence and capital, both of which will doubtless soon follow our admission into the Dominion and the renewal of the reciprocity treaty. Our magnificent fishing grounds are destined not only to exert a direct beneficial influence upon our merce, but an indirect influen less important upon the general well-being of the colony at large. The employ BILLIARD TABLES ment of a large number of vessels in the fishing trade will necessarily call for many hands to man them, who will form the nucleus of a naval force to protect FOR OMINECA the interests of the Dominion; and as our forests abound with excellent timber for ship building purposes, the demand for vessels will induce capitalists to go into that branch of industry, thus open-ing a wide field of profitable labor to hundreds of mechanics and laboring men which will exert a potent influence for good throughout the whole country. The day will assuredly come,—nor do we think it very far distant—when our coasts, and inlets, and numerous bays will be traversed by bundreds of vessels engaged in the fishing trade, and when our com-merce in this branch alone will amount to as many millions sunually as does the like trade now in the Eastern Provinces. Situated, as we are, in what will shortly be the direct line of travel between the densely peopled countries of China, Ja-pan, the Australian group of colonies, and those of the Enropean continent, we do not think it any great stretch of the gination to predict a glorious comand despised dependency of the British empire. We are now just at the dawn of a brighter day for British Columbia. The clouds which have so long o'ercast our horizon are about to be dispelled, and with a free government and reciproca trade with our American cousins, we can look at the future without a glimmer of doubt as to our ultimate prosperity.

CARICATURE NUMBER 2.—For a week past a cartoon of a political character, has been on exhibition in several places in town. It makes the second of the series, we understand, this are being prepared, and certainly the author in his likenesses is true to nature, and happy in his likenesses is true to nature, and happy in a difference between the modes of drinking by Anglo-Saxons, in England and North America, is curious. At home, a minority of men get beastly drunk occasionally, and drink deep; on this Continent, the majority are continually drinking in small quantities, and very rarely get absolutely drunk; but if we are to judge by results, the latter is the most ruinous, though least offensive method. First, a man is tempted to take a casual drink, apart from his ordinary meals—either on the transaction of some business matter, or as a simply social proceeding by way of remmanication from the Colonial Secretion of the series, we understand, this forwarding the Municipal Revenue By the second of the series, we understand, this likenesses is true to nature, and happy in the second of the series, we understand, this likenesses is true to nature, and happy in the second of the series, we understand, this likenesses is true to nature, and happy in the second of the series, we understand, this likenesses is true to nature, and happy in the second of the series, we understand, this likenesses is true to nature, and happy in the steed and placed on file.

The Member for Manaimo of the Member for passing the time gaily,—then he becomes the passing the time gaily,—then he becomes habituated to a daily nip (as it is euphemictically called)—then several times a dry,—and then the morning dram is found necessary to invigorate his spirits; soon, he can do noth-liked and has fallen headlong, breaking his invigorate his spirits; soon, he can do noth-ing without the regular and increasing stimling without the regular and increasing stim-ulant,—till finally, without ever being actu-ally drank, the habit becomes a disease, and the Devil takes complete possession. Re-spected in his life (for the drinker is a genial fellow) he dies lamented—that is, in the usual way. The various learned, secret and benevolent societies are called out, the members walk two and two to the grave, with drums beating and banners flying, and a crowd of citizens bring up the rear. The most part try to look mournful, but are per-fectly satisfied, and seem to think they are doing honor both to themselves and the de-ceased. For the pseudo-military part of the performance, its supporters can now point to a high precedent in the practice of the "heathen Chinee." I do not know what good the societies above mentioned may do to their members during their life, but apparently their activity is most demonstrative after death, when they undertake to confer military rank on the deceased—provide him with nodding plumes and Haynes' band. Lexnon, May 1-In the House of Com-mons, the debate on the Budget was resumed. Portland, has lately executed a painting of Mr. W. H. income tax.
In the House of Commons, Harrison and Healey made bitter attacks on the Budget. Lowe defended it and said the Government had presented the best available substitute for the impost rejected by the House. Paris, May 1-The Commune has revoked the order for the arrest of Gen, Cluseret. A series of barricades are being built to com-pletely encircle the city. Dombrowski is now in command on the banks of the Seine. The guarding the barriers of order on the ram-part, and do duty bravely under a terrible fire.

VERSAILLES, May 1-Negotiations for the surrender of Fort D'Issay failed; the bomhardment has now recommenced, and is very violent. In the Assembly to-day, Picar stated the Municipal elections throughout France passed off quietly, yesterday, except at the Naval Club House, Esquimalt, for the uce of the officers of the fleet.

LONDON, May 1—Lord Granville, in the House of Lords to-night, declined to answer ons respecting the negotiations for the questions respecting the negotiations for the settlement of the San Juan boundary with the United States. He stated that the Governnent was under obligations of secrecy until the treaty ratifications were exchanged.

license ought to be granted except on a petition of two-thirds of the residents in the neighborhood; here, no license is refused unless a strong petition or remonstrance is preferred against its grant.

It is high time that an effort be made to mitigate the evil; for it is no exaggeration to say that more deaths in Victoria can be traced to the effects of drinking (I do not say drunkenness) than of all other agencies put together.

The difference between the modes of drinking by Anglo-Saxons, in England and North America, is curious. At home, a minority of $204,835.

Justice Clifford read the brief and papers in the legal tender cases, Knox, Lee and Parker v. Davis, Bellows; in these two cases there were two questions heretofore directed to be argued, namely, first is act of Congress, known as Legal Tender Act constitutional as to contracts made before its passage; second, it will be serviced to the second. is it valid as applicable to transactions since its passage. The question had been considered by the Court. Both decided in the affirmative. Decree of the Supreme Judiciary Court of Mass. in the case of Parker v. Davis is therefore affirmed, and the judgment of the Circuit Court of United States of Western District of Texas is also affirmed. And in the case of Dunning against Sears, and twenty other cases from the Supreme Court of Michigan, contracts were for delivery of specified weight of gold removable as coined money. Court below held that they were discharged by payment of Treasury notes equivalent is market value to value of coined money o market value to value of coined money of stipulated weight of pure gold. This Court reversed that judgement—holding that it should have been entered for coined dollars and parts of dollars.

Washington, May 1—There was a large number of the Bar present at the Supreme Court chambers to-day, as it was known that the Court would announce many opinions prepared during the week's recess previous to pared during the week's recess, previous to adjourning until the 16th of October next. All the judges were on the bench with the exception of Justice Wilson; Chief Justice retired at about 2 o'clock. Notes of opinions were announced at 3 o'clock, and the Chie Justice, with associate Justices Wilson, Clif ford, and Field, dissented from majority o the Court upon both propositions, and result, holding that the Act of Congress as far as applicable to contracts made before the passage, and is repugnant to the Constitution, so far as applicable to contracts made since the hero of the melancholy spectacle could speak, methicks he would repudiate with the Opposition, they cry, what a gloriou victory for the Ministry! A majority of full 27 out of a vote of 161 sustained the Government in their patriotic and highly national course. They are welcome to their brief triumph. They should remember that the vote in Parliament is not always a sure in dication of the popular sentiment, especially when an election has not been held for sev-eral years. The majorities that sustained John Sandfield in his very unwise legislation did not indicate the opinions of the people of Ontario, as was evident on the 21st of March last. So in the Dominion Parliament. By a similar course of the tacts to that puasued by Sandfield, the other Macdonald has receive el a mijority of supporters. But their vot sedo not represent their constituencies, and when the elections take place next year the apparent strength of the Government will melt away as far as this Province is concerned. If there had been any doubts before, there are more now. The people may be blinded for a time by "no party" cries and electioneering dodges, but when it comes to shouldering a burden like the Pacific Railway, with the other expenses incurred through British Columbia, it is different. It is not easy to take money out of our pockets with-out its being felt. The people of Ontario, who will have to foot this Bill, can not be manipulated as easily as their representa-
